

Shivin Kohli
Senior Manager
AlphaBeta – Part of Access Partnership

Shivin is a Senior Manager in AlphaBeta’s Singapore office and is an experienced economics and strategy consultant. Shivin leads AlphaBeta’s research and engagement on a number of sustainability topics, including the future of business and biodiversity, the future of food and alternative proteins, nature-positive agriculture, and nature-positive cities. He works with a number of prominent organisations in this space, including the World Economic Forum, Temasek, Food Industry Asia, and the Singapore government. He also co-leads and supports work in other areas at AlphaBeta, including public financial management (PFM), digital financial services (DFS), online video on demand (VOD) in Asia Pacific, the economic impact of cloud technologies, and trade and regional connectivity, with organisations including the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, Netflix, and Google. Shivin holds a Bachelor of Science with Honours in Economics and Public Policy from Singapore Management University. Shivin also co-founded ‘Project Gazaab’, an overseas community service project in a remote North Indian village, focused on social entrepreneurship through patient capital.
