

THE STRAITS TIMES
EDUCATION
FORUM 2022

IN PARTNERSHIP WITH

The evolving role of universities

Universities are no longer insular institutions whose purview extends no further than the campus grounds. Today, they are multifaceted organisations with connections to government, businesses, and local and global communities.

Social, economic, environmental and technological forces are driving changes in society, and higher education institutions must respond or become irrelevant.

The Straits Times Education Forum on “The evolving role of universities”, held in partnership with the Singapore Management University, will delve into how universities focus less on what they are good at, and more on what they are good for.

The hybrid event, moderated by ST’s Singapore editor Zakir Hussain, will see Education Minister Chan Chun Sing deliver the keynote address. A panel discussion follows, with Mr Andreas Schleicher, director for education and skills, and special adviser on education policy to the Secretary-General at the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), and SMU professor Lily Kong.

Thursday, Feb 10

10am – 11.30am

Sign up at str.sg/wgve

by Feb 4, 6pm

Registration is FREE

PANELLISTS

Lily Kong
Singapore Management University, professor

Chan Chun Sing
Minister for Education

Andreas Schleicher
Director for education and skills, and special adviser on education policy to the Secretary-General, OECD

Zakir Hussain
Singapore editor, The Straits Times

MODERATOR

Have a question for our panellists?
Send it to str.sg/wgve